Abel Tasman National Park

At 22,530 hectares Abel Tasman is New Zealand's smallest National Park, located at the top of the South Island in the beautiful Nelson Tasman region. Here, inviting sandy beaches fill the spaces between trees and tide line. Crystal clear streams tumble down mossy valleys to join the ocean. Granite and marble formations fringe the headlands, which are cloaked in regenerating native forest.
Basking under the most sunshine hours in the country, and year round mild temperatures, any time of the year is a great time to visit Abel Tasman National Park
